Dog Days of Summer

The term “dog days” was first used by the ancient Romans to refer to late July and early August. That is when Sirius, the “dog star,” would rise and set in conjunction with the sun. The Romans believed the star added to the heat produced by the sun.

Eat for Better Sleep

The International Journal of Obesity published a study that suggests the more fatty foods you eat, the worse you will sleep. Fried food, red meat and cheese-based meals make your digestive system work overtime when your body is trying to rest.
